7. Applicant Notes

The applicant intends to occupy the property as a principal residence. The down payment is reported as personal savings. Income and debt figures in this sample are intentionally presented in different formats so that a document-analysis system must identify the correct fields rather than rely only on fixed line positions.

Testing note: A robust extractor should distinguish total annual income ($98,000) from employment income ($92,000), and should not confuse the 5-year mortgage term with the 25-year amortization period.
